Tips from Gabi Köberl:

Before drawing a line on your eyelids, practice it on the back of your palm to determine how thick you want it to be. Then, keep your arm steady by placing your elbow on the table. Start at the inner corner of the eye and draw a very thin line as close as possible to your eyelashes.

Don't close your eye; just keep it halfway open while applying and stay as relaxed as possible. Straining your eye or stretching the skin causes the line to not be smooth.

You don't need to blend liquid liner, as it is meant to look like a very sharp line. Also, don't line your bottom lashes with the liquid eyeliner as the distinct line will make them look smaller.
