Product description:

The Power of aloe vera

The pure juice of the aloe vera plant has been used in many cultures for centuries, treasured as a natural remedy which improves overall well-being. The certified organic cultivation and the handwork during processing of the fresh aloe vera leaves ensures for Santaverde aloepur an average minimum content of 1.200 mg Aloverose per liter, aloe vera's most important agent.

Home cultivation and processing

Santaverde products contain our self-cultivated, pure aloe vera juice, which comes directly from our crops in Andalusia. We have been cultivating organic aloe vera in the mild climates of southernmost Europe for over 30 years, harvesting leaves with an average minimum content of 1.200 mg Aloverose per liter. The reason for this lies in the consistent organic cultivation, the enduring soil maintenance and the strict selection of fresh leaf fillets during processing. We monitor the purity and quality of our products from the plants' cultivation until the juice has been bottled and is ready to drink.

Ingredients:

Self-produced, pure aloe vera juice with a guaranteed average minimum aloverose content of 1200 mg / l.
